Catawba College

Catawba College is controlled by a Board of Trustees who are elected by the North Carolina Classis of the Reformed Church in the United States. It owes its existence to a long-felt need of a school for training in the Liberal Arts under religious influences. The thought was crystallized by the suggestion made in 1850 by the late Judge M. L. McCorkle, of Newton, N. C., that such a school be organized. The suggestion was eagerly taken up, the movement grew apace—aided by the liberal support and co-operation of the people of the town and the sacrificing efforts of ministers and lay members of the Reformed Church in the State and elsewhere the school was opened in the fall of the year 1851. By the provisions of a charter granted by the Legislature of North Carolina on December 17, 1852, the institution was empowered to conduct its work as a seat of learning, confer degrees, etc. Owing to financial difficulties, it continued for a number of years, from 1861 to 1885, as a High School. In 1885, however, the full collegiate work was resumed and has been continued to the present time with increasing efficiency and success.

Catawba College embodies the ideals of its founders as a place where instruction is given in the various branches of learning that are recognized as the groundwork of a liberal education, where not only the instruction in the classroom but the influence of the various activities of students and teachers leads to the development of manly Christian character, and where the ideal life portrayed in the Great Teacher is constantly kept in view. Particularly fortunate is it that the liberality of views that is characteristic of the Reformed Church has resulted here in emphasizing the fundamental principles of Christian living without any semblance of sectarianism. A systematic study of the Bible is required of all students in the College and of the students in the third and the fourth years of the academic department. This is not done with a view to the inculcating of any particular set of beliefs or tenets of religion but to give a much needed emphasis to the religious element in a liberal education which, in this age of purely technical training, is often lost sight of.

Catawba College is fortunate also in being located in one of the progressive towns of Western North Carolina, in the Piedmont section of the State. Situated in the southern part of the town, surrounded by a beautiful campus of 12 acres, it offers easy access to the business center of the place and yet is sufficiently removed to enjoy freedom from interruption and afford opportunity for study. The people of the town are vitally interested in the work of the College and support liberally its various activities. The Asheville division of the Southern Railway and the Carolina and Northwestern Railway provide excellent facilities for reaching the place.

The main college building is a three-story structure of brick, built in Colonial style. In it are located the recitation rooms, library, office, society halls, auditorium, and dormitory rooms for the young men. Several years ago a large addition was made to the building and the entire building was renovated so that it is in an excellent condition.

The Ladies' Hall consists of a main dwelling and a cottage. In the main dwelling are the music rooms and the dining room where all meals are served to boarding students. All the buildings are heated with steam, lighted with acetylene gas, and furnished with all the modern conveniences.

Two literary societies, the Philomathean and the Athenean, are maintained by the male students of the college. A third society, the Idahian, is maintained by the young women. These societies have well-furnished rooms of their own, are governed by constitutions and by-laws of their own selection, and devote their time to exercises in declamation, oratory, and debate. Exercises to which the public are admitted are held at certain times during the year when medals for proficiency in the various departments of literary work are awarded. During the year several dramatic performances are given under the auspices of these societies.

Public exercises consisting of declamations, essays, and orations are held twice during each term. All students in the college

Public Exercises department are required to participate in these exercises - the Freshmen delivering declamations, the Sophomores essays, and the Juniors and the Seniors orations. These productions are all rehearsed before and criticised by a committee of the faculty.

Catawba College has always laid emphasis upon the religious element which it believes ought to be a part of a liberal education. Inasmuch as the aim of all edu-

Religious Influences cational work is greater efficiency and greater usefulness, it believes that the strongest factor in bringing about that greater usefulness is the development of a religious consciousness on the part of the individual. Consequently the general principles of Christian conduct, without reference to any particular creed, are emphasized in her teaching as well as in the life of the institution.

The work of each school day is begun with a fifteen minute religious service which all students are required to attend. The Religious Organizations religious life of the institution is further enriched by the very excellent work of the Young Men's and the Young Women's Christian Associations. Both organizations hold weekly meetings on Sunday afternoon. Occasionally joint meetings are held at which the ministers of the local churches and ministers from a distance address the students. Twice during the year receptions to the students are given by the members of these associations. Both associations also send delegates to the annual State conventions and the Summer Schools. They thus keep in direct, vital touch with the great work of these organizations the world over.

Various forms of athletics are indulged in and are encouraged, as foot-ball, base-ball, basket-ball, tennis, and field sports. While Athletics the purpose is not to make athletic sports an end in themselves but a means of bodily development and necessary exercise, a limited number of intercollegiate games is permitted. All schedules of such games must, however, be submitted by the various athletic managers to the faculty for its approval. The expense incident to such contests and the purchase of athletic goods is borne by the athletic association of the school, aided generously by well-disposed citizens of the town.

The government of the students in the collegiate department is based upon the policy of allowing as great a degree of freedom

College Department of movement as is consistent with right living and careful work. There is no resort to petty regulation, but a strong personal appeal is made to the students' sense of right and propriety. During this year definite steps looking toward a permanent organization of the student-body were taken. An organization was effected by the election of a Students' Council which considers questions affecting the welfare of the students, and exerts a powerful influence for good in the discipline and order of the school.

Periods of recitation are three-fourths of an hour in length and continue from 8:45 to 11:45 A. M., and from 1:00 to 4:00 P. M.

Recitations A schedule of recitations is published at the beginning of each term. Absence from a recitation, except for a legitimate excuse, is marked with a demerit. When the number of demerits reaches five, some form of punishment is imposed by the faculty.

A complete record of the work done in the various branches of study by each student is kept on file. At the end of each term

Reports reports of the standing of the students in class-work are sent out to parents or guardians. At intervals during the term reports of the progress of the students are also made.

Believing that the best interests and highest good of the students of the College and of the community are advanced by the Public public utterances of representative men of Entertainments eloquence and by the performances of musical companies of recognized talent, a course of Lyceum attractions was provided during the year. These proved to be unusually interesting and profitable. The following attractions were seen and heard during this year :

Oct. 6, 1908.—The Temple Quartet Company.

Dec. 10, 1908.—Ralph Bingham, Humorist.

Jan. 14, 1909.—The Christine Giles Recital Company.

Jan. 27, 1909.—Ross Crane, The Cartoonist and Clay Modeler.

Feb. 15, 1909.—The Hon. Luther Manship, Entertainer.

Mar. 15, 1909.—The Otterbein Quartet Co. and Bell Ringers.

The following attractive course has been provided for the coming year. The cost of these attractions is $1.50 for the course. Because of the educative value of such entertainments and the fact that they are provided primarily for the students, all students are expected to secure course tickets. The following are scheduled to appear in the college auditorium on dates to be announced :

The Scotch Singers of Glasgow, a Ladies' Quartet.

Spillman Riggs, Humorous Lecturer.

The Marguerite Smith Company, consisting of three accomplished lady artists.

Hal Merton, the Magician.

The De Koven Male Quartet, accompanied by a reader of unusual talent.

Students taking any one of the regular courses are required to take all the studies indicated in the outlines of the courses as the required studies in that course for that year.

Entrance and Classification

Students whose previous work is not known are required to take the matriculation examinations so that they may be properly classified. The advancement of students in the college is made on the basis of the final grades made in the required and elected studies for the particular year. These grades are determined by counting the daily grade as two-thirds and the examination grade as one-third. A final grade of seventy is necessary to pass in any one subject and an average final grade of seventy-five to pass the work for the year in any one course. The grade for the course is determined by taking the average of the final grades for the four years of the course.

Academic students who are looking forward to the completion of one of the college courses must take the studies which are required for entrance for that particular course. Those doing so are classified as regular students; those not doing so and those whose studies are distributed through two or more years are classified as irregular students.

All courses of both collegiate and academic students must be submitted to the Dean of the college for his approval. No study that has been elected can be dropped without his consent. Four studies, equivalent to twenty periods a week, are required of all students, regular and irregular.

Reports of the work done by each student are sent out at the close of each term. Reports of the progress of the students in their studies are sent to parents at frequent intervals during the year.

Courses of Instruction.

Three courses of instruction are offered, viz., the Classical, the Scientific, and the Literary courses, upon the completion of which the degrees of A. B., B. S., and B. L. respectively are conferred.

True to an ideal which is now threatened with destruction in many quarters, Catawba College still holds to the classical ideal in education. Believing that an intimate knowledge of the mode of life and habits of thought of the nations of antiquity, as gained through the medium of their languages, furnishes one of the best stimuli to intellectual development, it, accordingly, lays emphasis upon the study of the humanities. Before the advent of specialized and technical training, there ought to be a symmetrical development of the best qualities of head and heart such as a well-balanced classical course, diligently pursued, will produce.

The Scientific course emphasizes the study of the natural and the mental sciences and mathematics, not, however, to the exclusion of the languages altogether.

The Literary course is designed to meet the needs of those who desire to study polite literature to the exclusion of the ancient languages and the higher mathematics.

In the following outlines of the three courses offered, the required studies for each year are given first, the elective studies are given last. The numerals given after each study refer to the numbers of the courses in the various departments.

Mental and Moral Sciences.

PROFESSOR J. C. CLAPP.

The work outlined in this department is required of all Junior and Senior students in all courses of study. Courses a and b for each term alternate, each being given two periods per week.

- 1—(a) MORAL PHILOSOPHY.—This course involves a study of the principles of human conduct, of the duties of man toward his fellow-man, and the obligations he owes God and the State.

TEXT-BOOK—Hickok's Moral Science.

Fall term, Junior year, two periods.

- (b) EVIDENCES OF CHRISTIANITY.—An interesting study is made of the claims of Christianity as the world's religion and the proofs of the genuineness of its revelations.

TEXT-BOOK—Fisher's Manual of Christian Evidences.

Fall term, Junior year, two periods.

- 2—(a) PSYCHOLOGY.—This study embraces an inquiry into the physiological basis of human consciousness and the workings of the mind.

TEXT-BOOK—Judd's Psychology.

Spring term, Junior year, two periods.

- (b) LOGIC.—In this course the various forms of the Syllogism and the art of Reasoning are studied.

TEXT-BOOK—Creighton's An Introductory Logic.

Spring term, Junior year, two periods.

- 3—(a) AESTHETICS.—This course involves an interesting study of the nature of the Beautiful and the various forms in which it manifests itself.

TEXT-BOOK—Bascom's Aesthetics.

Fall term, Senior year, two periods.

- (b) POLITICAL ECONOMY.—A brief study is made of the principles of economic activities and the effect of these principles upon society.

TEXT-BOOK—Bullock's Introduction to the Study of Economics.

Fall term, Senior year, two periods.

4—(a) HISTORY OF PHILOSOPHY.—In this course a survey is made of the systems of philosophy that have affected the progress of the thought and the civilization of the world.
 TEXT-BOOK—Roger's Student's History of Philosophy.
 Spring term, Senior year, two periods.

(b) SOCIOLOGY.—An elementary course, dealing with the organization of society, the principles of social activity, and the significance of the movements of the present day.
 TEXT-BOOK—Gidding's Elements of Sociology.
 Spring term, Senior year, two periods.

BIBLE.—Classes in the study of the English Bible are formed and meet at times convenient to both instructor and students. Steele's Outlines of Bible Study is used as the basis of instruction in these classes.

History.

PROFESSOR J. C. CLAPP.

1—MEDIÆVAL AND MODERN HISTORY.—This course embraces a study of the history of the Middle Ages together with an inquiry into the history of the establishment, growth, and civilization of the nations of the present.

TEXT-BOOK—Myer's Mediæval and Modern History.

Required of all Freshmen. Entire year. Four periods.

2—(a) ENGLISH HISTORY.—An intimate study of the history of England from the earliest times to the present is made.

TEXT-BOOK—Andrews' History of England.

Required of all Sophomores. Fall term. Four periods.

(b) AMERICAN HISTORY.—A careful inquiry is made into the origin and the development of the form and various features of our constitutional government.

TEXT-BOOK—Thorpe's Constitutional History.

Required of all Sophomores. Spring term. Four periods.

English Language and Literature.

PROFESSOR W. W. ROWE.

1—COMPOSITION AND RHETORIC.—This course involves a careful study of the practical elements of Rhetoric and the principles of Literary Composition. Written work in the form of original composition is required at regular intervals. By correction and criticism the ability of the student to express his thoughts in good English is developed.

TEXT-BOOKS—Thomas and Howe's Composition and Rhetoric; Wooley's Handbook of Composition.

Required of all Freshmen. Fall and spring terms. Five periods.

2—(a) Advanced Rhetoric and Composition.

(b) History of American Literature.

The purpose of this course is to give more detailed study to the development of the more advanced types of composition. The practical work is enlarged so as to include the writing and delivery of original orations. This is accompanied by a study of the history of American Literature and its representative authors.

TEXT-BOOKS—Genung's Working Principles of Rhetoric; Pancoast's Introduction to American Literature.

Required of all Sophomores. Fall term. Five periods.

3—(a) Anglo-Saxon.

(b) History of the English Language.

(c) History and Literature of the Early and the Middle periods.

The course in Anglo-Saxon includes also a study of the origin and development of the English Language. This work is followed by a study of the literature of the Early and the Middle periods. The work of this year is thus wisely coordinated.

TEXT-BOOKS—Smith's Old English Grammar; Emerson's History of the English Language; Pancoast's Introduction to English Literature.

Required of all Juniors. Fall and spring terms. Four periods.

4—(a) History and Literature of the Modern and the Victorian periods.

(b) Literary Study of the Bible.

(c) Principles of Literary Criticism.

The study of the literature of the Modern and the Victorian periods is followed by a careful study of the purely literary value of the Bible. Succeeding this, there is an interesting inquiry into the principles that underlie literary criticism.

TEXT-BOOKS—Pancoast's Introduction to English Literature; Moulton's Introduction to the Literature of the Bible; Winchester's Principles of Literary Criticism.

Required of all Seniors. Fall and spring terms. Three periods.

Latin.

PROFESSOR W. B. DAVIS.

- 1—LIVY, Bk. I—Rapid reading of the text. Points of history and style are emphasized. A detailed study of constructions is made.

Required of all Freshmen. Fall term. Four periods.

- 2—VIRGIL, Aeneid—Selections from the first three books and the fourth book. Careful drill in syntax and poetic peculiarities. Quantitative reading.

Required of all Freshmen. Spring term. Four periods.

- 3—CICERO, De Senectute—Thorough grounding in prose construction is aimed at. Emphasis is placed upon the philosophical content of the text. Style of the author.

Required of all Sophomores. Fall term. Three periods.

- 4—HORACE, Odes and Epodes. Poetic peculiarities, style, elegance of expression in Latin are carefully studied. Quantitative reading. Lectures on the life and works of Horace.

Required of all Sophomores. Spring term. Three periods.

- 5—HORACE, Satires and Epistles. Lectures on the development of the Roman satire. Characteristics of the Horatian satires.

Required of all Juniors in A. B. and B. L. courses. Fall term. Two periods.

- 6—LATIN COMEDY. Plautus' Captivi. Terence's Phormio. Lectures on Latin Comedy.

Required of all Juniors in A. B. and B. L. courses. Spring term. Two periods.

ples of Latin composition, including a thorough study of the conditional sentences.

Elective for Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors. Fall term. One period.

- 8—HISTORY OF ROMAN LITERATURE. Lectures and collateral reading. Emphasis is placed upon the works of the elegiac poets.

Elective for Juniors and Seniors. Spring term. Two periods.

Greek.

PROFESSOR W. R. WEAVER.

The study of Greek is required of students taking the classical course. By a study of the language at first hand there is secured a clear insight into the modes of life and of thought and an intimate knowledge of the character of the most remarkable people of antiquity.

- 1—XENOPHON'S MEMORABILIA, Books I—III. This account of the life of Socrates serves as the basis of an appreciative study of the life of this great teacher.

Freshman year. Fall term. Four periods.

- 2—HERODOTUS' HISTORY. This course is intended to introduce the student to the Ionic dialect as well as to the work of the first great historian.

TEXT-BOOK—Selections from Herodotus.

Freshman year. Spring term. Four periods.

- 3—HOMER'S ILIAD, Books I—III. A careful study of the Homeric question and the peculiarities of Homeric forms and style is made.

TEXT-BOOK—Keep's Homer's Iliad.

Sophomore year. Fall term. Three periods.

- 4—DEMOSTHENES' ORATIONS—The oration "On the Crown"—the greatest oration of the greatest orator—is critically studied.

Sophomore year. Spring term. Three periods.

- 5—PLATO'S APOLOGY AND CRITO. The remarkable defense of Socrates is a fine example of the philosophic grandeur of the Greek language as well as of the keen argumentative power of the speaker.

Junior year. Fall term. Three periods.

- 6—GREEK DRAMA—Sophocles' Electra is made the basis of an inquiry into the dramatic literature of the ancient Greeks.
Junior year. Spring term. Three periods.
- 7—NEW TESTAMENT GREEK—An elective course in the Greek of the New Testament is offered in the fall term of the Senior year. Westcott and Hort's The New Testament in Greek is used as the basis of instruction.
Senior elective. Fall term. Two periods.

German.

PROFESSOR W. R. WEAVER.

The work in German covers a period of three years. The courses of study outlined are required of students in the Classical and the Scientific courses and are elective for students in the Literary course.

- 1—BEGINNER'S GERMAN—An elementary course in the study of the declensions, the conjugations, word-order, and the grammatical principles of the language.
TEXT-BOOK—Ball's A German Grammar.
Sophomore year. Fall term. Five periods.
- 2—EASY GERMAN PROSE—The work of the fall term is followed by a study of easy German prose and poetry, frequent reviews of the grammar being made.
TEXT-BOOK—Mueller and Wenchebach's Glueck Auf.
Sophomore year. Spring term. Five periods.
- 3—SCHILLER'S WILHELM TELL—This classic play serves as a most interesting study in itself and as an introduction to German dramatic literature.
Junior year. Fall term. Three periods.

Required of B. S. seniors, elective for A. B. and B. L. seniors. Fall and spring terms. Three periods.

Academic Department.

The academic department of the school prepares for admission to college. The work is arranged in a course of four years. The Scope of Work studies given for each year in the outline of academic studies are required of all regular students, with the exception of Greek which is required of students preparing to take the Classical course.

The students in the academic department are under specific regulations as to hours of study and matters of discipline, in addition to the general regulations of the college.

Regulations These specific regulations pertain to the internal arrangement of the work of the school and the general conduct of the students. These regulations are made known in detail at the beginning of each school year.

The government of the students in the academic department proceeds upon the assumption that the faculty stands in the Government place of the parents or guardian in all matters of discipline and general over-sight.

The authority that goes with this assumption is not exercised in an arbitrary way but always, or as nearly so as human fallibility will allow, for the best interests and well-being of the student-body and of the individual student. A valuable factor in the maintenance of discipline is not the regulation from without but the restraint which the student brings to bear upon himself and which comes from the daily contact and experience with his fellow students. Where this restraint is lacking, recourse must be had to measures that will produce it. These measures are determined upon and carried out by the faculty. Failure to submit to a measure of discipline involves further punishment, and may result in summary dismissal from the institution. The faculty assumes no liability resulting from the dismissal of any student nor does it, invariably, render an account for such dismissal. It is governed only by what it conceives to be the best interests of the student-body as a whole and acts accordingly. It is understood that parents and guardians, by placing their children in the school, signify their acceptance of these conditions and the methods of government employed.

TEXT-BOOKS—Goodwin and White's Xenophon's Anabasis; Goodwin's Greek Grammar.

Expression and Physical Culture.

MISS EMILIE B. URQUHART.

The aim of this department is to cultivate in the student the best powers of expression. This is accomplished by training in the correct use of the voice, correct breathing, posture, and gesture. Exercise is given in the reading of selections from standard authors. Occasional public appearances under the direction of the teacher are required. Instruction is given both in class and in private, two lessons per week.

The work in physical culture consists of free exercises without apparatus, elementary gymnastic movements, developing exercises, and marching. The work produces proper carriage of the person, ease and grace of movement, and control of the body. The class meets four times a week at the close of the periods of recitation.

Pianoforte and Voice.

EDWARD F. HAENDIGES.

The school is fortunate in being able to offer unusual facilities in musical instruction. The aim of the department is the development of the talent of the individual student and the fostering of a desire on the part of the students in general for the best in music.

The college auditorium is furnished with a Steinway Concert Grand piano and is extraordinarily well adapted for the giving of musical performances and public entertainments. Performances in public on the part of the students in music are required as part of the work. Instruction is given in two half-hour lessons per week.

The following are the principal studies that are used: in Pianoforte—E. D. Wagner, Czerny, Cramer, Chopin, Clementi, Moscheles; in Voice—Concone, Garcia, Lamperti, Marcheci, Panseron, Sieber; in Organ—Rink, Stanier, Nilson, Mendelssohn, Bach.

Art.

MISS MARION W. CARR.

The work of this department is arranged to cover a period of four years.

FIRST YEAR—Elementary and shaded drawings from casts and objects, in pencil and charcoal. History of Art.

SECOND YEAR—Perspective. Time drawing. First course in water colors. History of Art.

THIRD YEAR—Painting in oil and water colors from still life and landscapes. Time drawing and painting. Sketching and painting from nature.

An elementary course in china painting is elective.

FOURTH YEAR—Painting in oil and water colors from still life and landscapes. Drawing and painting from life. Lessons in decorative work and pyrography.

China painting, in naturalistic and conventional designs, is elective.

Rates.

The following rates for boarding students cover the cost of tuition in any one of the three regular courses, board, room, heat, and light.

Boarding Students

Instruction in music, art, expression, and physical culture is extra.

College department, . . . $140 per year.

College department, . . . $ 72 per term.

College department, . . . $ 16 per month.

Academic department, . . $130 per year.

Academic department, . . $ 66 per term.

Academic department, . . $ 15 per month.

One-half of the rate for the term must be paid when the student registers, and the remaining one-half by the middle of the term. On all accounts unpaid at the time specified interest is charged at the rate of six per cent until settlement is made.

Payment

These rates entitle the student to a room in the college dormitories—choice of room from among those not assigned being given, provided the selection is accompanied by a deposit of $5.00. This amount is credited to the student's account and is deducted from the amount of the first payment. Rooms for the year 1909-10 will be assigned in this way—preference in the assignment being given to students in the order of their classes. Thereafter, rooms will be assigned in the order in which applications are received.

Rooms

A breakage fee of two dollars must be paid, when registering,
Breakage Fee by every student who rooms in the college buildings.

Any damage done to the property of the college in a student's room is charged to the account of the student occupying such room. Damage to college property in general is charged to the breakage fund and a proportional deduction is made on the account of each student. Whatever balance remains unexpended at the end of the year is returned to the student.

The rates of tuition for day students are as follows :

College department, . . . $45 00 per year.
 College department, . . $23.00 per term.
 College department, . . . $ 5.50 per month.
 Academic department, . . $35.00 per year.
 Academic department, . . $18.00 per term.
 Academic department, . . $ 4.50 per month.

The same rules of payment apply to the rates of tuition for day students as for boarding students.

Music The rate for instruction in music, piano or voice, varies from $35 to $45 per year, according to teachers. This includes two half-hour lessons per week. One lesson of voice and one of piano per week may be substituted for two lessons of either voice or piano per week at the regular rate of $35 to $45 for the year. Use of piano for practice, one hour daily, at the rate of fifty cents per month. Choral class, one lesson per week, one dollar per term. Students desiring instruction in piano or voice for less than one term will be charged seventy-five cents per lessons.

Instruction is given in class and in private, two lessons per week. Instruction in class, not less than two in Expression class, $10 per term. Instruction in private, $18 per term, $35 per year. Physical culture, in class, $2.50 per term.

Instruction in Art, $18 per term, $35 per year. This rate is for regular classes working daily in the studio with the assistance of the teacher. Students enrolling for less than one term are charged seventy-five cents per lesson.

A charge of $5 is made for a diploma granted upon the completion of the A. B., B. S., and B. L. courses. A charge of $3 is made for a certificate granted upon the completion of the work in the departments of Music, Expression, and Art. These charges must be paid before Commencement Day.

Students who take any one of the regular courses are allowed a discount of ten per cent on all extras, such as music, art, and expression.

Discounts Two or more students from the same family are allowed a discount of ten per cent on the rate for tuition only.

Bona fide students for the Christian ministry and ministers' sons and daughters are allowed a discount of fifty per cent on the tuition for the regular course, and twenty-five per cent on the rate for music, art, and expression. No double discount, however, is given.

No student will be considered an applicant for graduation until he shall have settled all of his indebtedness to the college. If a student leaves before the close of the term, all of his accounts must be settled in full before leaving.
